York College Library

Introduction

York College Library had a productive and successful academic year despite a reduced budget and shortage of faculty due to research leave. During the past academic year (2012-2013), the library continued to be very vibrant and busy providing a multitude of services and adding an infusion of additional computers, as well as new laptops, books and E-books, and additional databases.

I. Reference Services
(Statistics Compiled by Prof. Scott Sheidlower, Head of Reference Services)

Over the past academic year (July 2012-June 2013), library faculty responded to 15,347 reference questions, reflecting a slight decrease over the previous year’s total of 15,976. Of 15,347 reference questions, 28.90% were professional, 34.56% were computer/web related, and 36.53% were non-professional questions. The overall reduction is likely linked to the presence of the Information Technology Service Desk in the library and the assistance of Mr. Sarwar, the Systems Administrator. Furthermore, library faculty taught more information literacy classes which, perhaps, led to better informed students who increasingly relied on non-circulating materials and electronics resources for their research papers and assignments. Nonetheless, it is important to point out that professional questions for the 2012-2013 academic year exceeded those of the previous year by 166. In addition, the types of questions library faculty handled changed, with more “non-professional” and computer-related questions now being answered by the IT Service Desk staff and the Systems Administrator. As a result, the library faculty were able to spend more time instructing students on how to do research on a one-to-one basis and to answer professional questions more in depth.

II. Budget: Income and Expenditures
(Statistics provided by Prof. John Drobnicki, Head of Collection Development)

The library appreciates the financial support from the York College Administration. In addition to the tax-levy funds (OTPS and Compact OTPS), the library also receives through the Students’ Technology Fee (15%), Auxiliary Enterprises (15 cents of every dollar spent by those who use cash to print or copy in the library), and through the Queens High School for Sciences ($92 per student). Below is a breakdown of the library’s income receivable and expenditures for the Academic Year 2012-2013:

During the academic year 2012-2013, the library’s OTPS (01) and OTPS Compact (02) budget was $151,539.00 compared to $329,000.00 for the 2011-2012 academic year. It is important to note that the OTPS (01) and OTPS Compact (02) budget for 2012-2013 was reduced by $177,461.00 (a reduction of more than one fifty percent). While higher enrollment has resulted in increased library usage, the library budget has not kept pace with the expanding services needs. In order for the library to provide optimal service to its patrons, it is important it receives additional personnel and financial support on a par with similar-sized colleges. Reduction of the library’s budget directly affects library services and may ultimately affect the college’s retention rate. It is also important to point out that the Compact (02) budget includes $54,000.00 in CUNY’s textbook funds. If this money had not been provided to the library, the Compact budget would have only been $61,288.00. I am hopeful that the administration will consider these reductions when allocating the 2013-2014 budget.

(NOTE: total income includes both New York State Tax-levy and non-tax levy funds)

Total Annual Expenditures $380,117.00

(Note: the figures above are rounded to the nearest dollar)

Unfortunately, in a time of national economic hardship, funding for the library has been limited and continues to decline. The total annual expenditures for the academic year 2012-2013 was $380,117.00; this reflects a decrease of approximately $85,000.00 compared to 2011-2012 annual expenditures of $465,164.00. (Note: the Office of Academic Affairs spent a portion of the library’s budget).

The 2005 Agreement between CUNY and the New York City Department of Education provides ($92) per high school student to the library on a CUNY campus with an affiliated high school. York Library serves the students of an affiliated DOE high school (Queens High School for Sciences at York College); hence, the library received $36,892.00 in High School Funds which were spent entirely on new books.

The Chief Librarian received a Coordinated Collection Development Aid (CCDA) grant of $8,431.00 from New York State to be spent on library materials. The library also received $1,500.00 in matching funds from CUNY Central for research-level collection development to support an existing graduate program. These funds are not New York State tax-levy.

III. Cataloging & Collection Maintenance
(Data provided by Mrs. Rose Dunne, CUNY Administrative Assistant, Cataloging)

From July 1, 2012 to June 30, 2013, a total of 4,471 volumes were added to the library’s collections, which included 549 volumes for the Reference Collection; 3,442 volumes for the Circulating Collection; 403 titles for Reserve Textbook Materials; and 77 volumes for the Curriculum Materials Collection (CMC). These titles included new books purchased from (Coutts), our book vendor, some largesse obtained from other libraries as well as gifts and donations. In addition, 14 DVDs, 2 Videos, 64 CD ROMS and 12 DVD ROMS were added to the library’s collection. The library also added a total of 33 volumes of serials, which included 22 for the Reference Collection and 11 for the Circulating Collection. Over the past year, 96 books were withdrawn from the library’s collections.

IV. Circulation & Reserve
(Statistics provided by Mrs. Grace Avila, Manager of Circulation & Reserve)

The library continues to be extremely busy, with many students requesting Reserve materials (for in-Library use) and borrowing Circulating materials to take home.

As shown in the figures above, a total of 138,451 items were borrowed for use within and outside the library, an increase of 7,261 from the previous year’s total of 131,190. (This data includes the circulating collection and textbooks). The increase is most likely attributable to the significant growth in student enrollment.

V. CLICS
(Statistics provided by Mrs. Grace Avila, Manager of Circulation & Reserve Services)

CLICS (CUNY Libraries Inter-Campus Services) is a book delivery service that lets users request books from any CUNY library to be delivered to another CUNY library. While the patron initiates the request by clicking on a link in the CUNY+ Online Catalog, there is still a lot of work involved on both ends of the transaction. First, the lending library has to send someone to find the book on the shelf; the item must be scanned in the Aleph system; it must be packed in a blue LAND bag; it is then picked up by a courier and delivered to the borrowing Library, where it must be opened, scanned, and held for pick up. Even though the Aleph system is supposed to send automated email messages to the borrower, the York Library Circulation staff sends direct email as a back-up, and in the case of Faculty or Staff, contact the patron to let them know the item has arrived.

(Note: the library lost 80 volumes of its circulating collection)

VI. Electronic Resources
(Data provided by Prof. Anamika Megwalu, Coordinator of Electronic Resources & Library Webmaster)

During the past academic year (2012-2013), the library received $205,500 in funding from the students’ Technology Fee. Thankfully, the library did not pay for reference databases from OTPS funds; otherwise, the consequence would be that we would not be able to purchase any books. (NOTE: Technology Fee funds were also used to buy toner and paper for the student printers in the library).

Over the past academic year, the library added the following databases:
- PsycTESTS
- Academic Complete E-book collection
- Annual Reviews Journals

Through use of Textbook funds, the library subscribed to additional electronic resources.
- Access to Medicine
- Palgrave 2012 Full Collection

The Library would also like to thank Dr. Robert Brugna and the Physician’s Assistant Program for funding the Up to Date database, which is available for all students and faculty.

Thanks to funding from the CUNY Central Office of Library Services, several E-book collections and databases were made available to all CUNY libraries over the past year.

- Gale virtual Reference Updates of Editions
- Gale Virtual Reference—new titles
- Nineteenth Century Collections Online (NCCO)
- Springer Books 2012 and 2013
- Palgrave Books 2013
- EBSCO's LGBT Life with Full Text
- Ethnic News Watch Backfile
VII. Interlibrary Loan
(Data provided by Prof. Sandra Gall Urban, Coordinator of Cataloging and Interlibrary Loan).

The library uses ILLiad, a patron-initiated online Interlibrary Loan (ILL) system that is paid for by the CUNY Central Office of Library Services. Since CLICS is also used to request books from other CUNY libraries, this may be one of the reasons why we did not see heavy use of Interlibrary Loan requests for books.

VIII. Information Literacy
(Statistics Compiled by Prof. Di Su, Coordinator of Information Literacy)

The library continues to have a very active Information Literacy (IL) program, which is frequently publicized on Yorktalk by Prof. Su. All library faculty taught IL classes over the past year. During the academic year (July 2012-June 2013), library faculty taught 168 Information Literacy sessions, reflecting an increase of 34 sessions over the previous year’s total of 134.

Table 8: Information Literacy Classes, 2008-2013
Since the Information Literacy classroom in the library (3G09) has only 21 computers, this limits the number of classes that faculty can teach in the IL classroom. Therefore, over the past academic year, library faculty taught most information literacy sessions in the Classroom Building labs. It is hoped that the plan to expand and upgrade the IL classroom into a smart classroom will be expedited and completed in summer 2013. The Library’s Information Literacy classroom is regularly utilized by classroom faculty who want to make use of the smart board and/or computers. The Information Literacy classroom continues to be utilized by Purchasing Department for CUNYfirst training.

IX. Computers/Technology
(Statistics provided by Prof. Daniel Cleary, Science Librarian, Liaison to IT Department, and Head of Serials and Microforms)

The library has significantly improved technology and service delivery to its users, by adding new services and upgrading computers and printers. During the past academic year (2012-2013), the library made the following improvements with Tech Fee funds: purchased 14 additional PCs and replaced 12 with new PCs; upgraded the Information Literacy classroom computers and added two extra PCs (altogether 21 seats); and received 10 new laptops for Reserve Service. Altogether, the library now has 150 computers (including 21 seats in the Information Literacy Classroom). In addition, the library replaced 4 printers and acquired 2 additional printers. Also, the IT Department plans to launch the PC reservation system in Fall 2013.

Over the past year, Mr. Jahed Sarwar (Systems Administrator) and the IT Service Desk staff continued to assist library users with technology issues including computers, email accounts and printing problems. Thanks to the Chief Information Officer, Mr. Peter Tighe, and the IT Department for their support and assistance. We continue to look for better ways to meet the technological needs of our patrons.

X. Periodicals & Microforms
(Data provided by Prof. Daniel Cleary, Science Librarian, Liaison to IT Department, and Head of Serials and Microforms)

In a climate of decreasing budgets, finding a way to provide students, faculty, and staff with access to a core collection of essential materials is a challenge. As the full text of more periodicals become available in the library’s electronic databases, the usage of printed
Periodicals and microforms has significantly dropped over the past few years. Thus, in order to find a balance between the needs of our users and to maintain high quality service, the library is gradually shifting from print materials and microforms to electronic resources. It is important to point out that the decision to cancel the print materials was solely based on student, faculty and staff usage.

XI. Outreach to Queens High School for the Sciences at York College (QHSS) and York Early College Academy (YECA)
(Data provided by Prof. Christina Miller, School Media Specialist, High School Librarian)

Prof. Miller provided 28 Information Literacy sessions for students in grades 9-12: 24 sessions for QHSS students and 4 sessions for YECA students taking college courses at York College. Prof. Miller also met with several QHSS students for individual research consultations and assisted many students with their assignments via email.

In addition, Prof. Miller purchased picture books and young adult books for the library’s Curriculum Materials Collection to support York’s Education Program and QHSS and YECA curricula.
XII. Archives
(Data provided by Professor Robert Machalow, Head of Archives)

The Archives of the York College Library has been increased by 2,167 items since the beginning of the Fall 2012 semester. Thanks to the diligent efforts of Professors Machalow and Sheidlower, the Archive is growing and includes items that represent a broad spectrum of college operations. Thanks to Prof. Drobnicki for cataloging all of the books in the Archive’s Bassin Collection and rare books collection (total of 427 titles).

XIII. Library Faculty & Staff Changes

In August 2012, Professor Sandra Urban returned from one year of family leave. After completing her terminal degree, Ms. Christina Miller was appointed as an Assistant Professor, effective August 27, 2012. She had been at York College since December 2002. In addition, Professor Scott Sheidlower was promoted to Associate Professor effective August 27, 2013, while Thomas Evans, was appointed as an Adjunct Lecturer in spring 2013.

XIV. Challenges:

In January 2011, one library faculty member retired but the position still remains vacant. With one faculty member beginning fellowship leave in August 2013, and another going on family leave, the library will be left with 5 full-time faculty members and 3 adjuncts. Staffing is being reduced at specific service points, but library usage continues to increase due to a growth in student enrollment. While increasing enrollment is generally a positive for any institution, it is disturbing that the library’s jump in Reference and Circulation services is combined with declines in library staffing, service hours, and materials’ budget. It will be challenging for the library to continue providing the high degree of services offered in the past without additional staffing. Nevertheless, library services to faculty, students, staff and the college community remains central in our goals. It is our hope that the vacant faculty position will be filled in the near future.

Since the library was forced to reduce hours in the middle of the Spring 2012 semester due to budget restraints, the Fall 2012 semester began with an operating schedule of 9:00 am to 9:00 pm Monday-Thursday, 9:00 am to 8:00 pm on Friday and 9:00 am to 5:00 pm on Saturday (a total of 4 hours a week). Although the library resumed normal operating hours in Spring 2013 (closing at 10:00 pm Monday-Thursday), it remained closed on Sundays.

Like many academic library administrators, I was excited to see the increase in the usage of the library, but the increase further exacerbated the library’s noise pollution problem. As a result, many York College students opt to study or do research elsewhere on campus, at home, or in other CUNY libraries. The library is committed to providing an environment that is inviting, but conducive to study. In order to enforce the Library’s rules and accommodate all users, especially those who want to study, the library is requesting that a Public Safety Officer be stationed in the library at all times.
In a highly competitive academic environment, the library is an important component of the College’s intellectual expression. Thus, continued maintenance of the library is essential to ensure that the nucleus of the college remains a welcoming environment for our patrons. Since the Library Department is one of the largest and heavily used spaces on campus, we hope the facility will be better taken care of during the coming academic year (2013-2014).

Hopefully by the start of the Fall 2013 semester: renovation work in the library’s five study rooms, will be completed.

XV. Library Goals and Objectives for 2013-2014

As evidenced by the statistics in (Sections; I, III, IV, V, VII, & VIII), Library Faculty and Staff worked very hard over the past academic year (2012-2013) to ensure that patrons receive high quality instruction and support services to meet their research needs. Below are several specific goals for the coming academic year:

- The Library will continue to revitalize its print collection through OTPS funds and subscribe to additional electronic resources through technology fee funds.
- The library will use textbook funds to purchase appropriate textbooks for students.
- The Library will work closely with the Chief Information Officer (Mr. Peter Tighe) to increase and improve use of technology and delivery service by:
  - purchasing additional laptops and computers
  - upgrading and expanding the Information Literacy classroom
  - implementing time limits for computers and study rooms.
- The Library will continue its outreach to the faculty through our Liaison program, with the goals of making faculty more aware our resources and services.
- The library will work closely with the facilities manager to rezone the library and to upgrade the furniture.
We look forward to providing high quality service to our patrons during the 2013-2014 academic year. Thanks to the 2012-2013 Library Committee Chair, Dr. Eric Metcalf, (Professor of Fine & Performing Arts), Prof. Daniel Cleary, the Library’s representative on the Committee, and the members who served during the past year, for their advice and insights. We look forward to working with the York College Administration and the members of the Library Committee in the 2013-2014 academic year.
